

RESOURCES FOR: Education Attainment

Applicants are encouraged to learn about their community by calculating the number of residents with Associates Degrees or higher among the working age population (18-64 years of age). It is recommended that applicants seek assistance from an individual or agency within the community that accesses US Census data on a regular basis to retrieve the data for this section from the American Community Survey. By conducting this research in the community, applicant committees will have a frame work for discussion about how to improve these numbers over time and which demographic groups to target in the required plans.
